A single large arrangement of red gladiolas was used on the altar of St. Augustine Catholic Church for the solemnization.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sylvia Moorman of 130 South Main Street, Minster, and the late Richard Moorman. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Maurer of 124 South Franklin Street, New Bremen, are parents of the bridegroom.

Special music for the service was taped and "The Love Theme From Romeo and Juliet" by Henry Mancini was used for the processional. The couple selected "Oh Happy Days" by the Edwin Hawkins Singers as the recessional. Soft music was played while guests were being seated prior to the wedding.

Miss Martha Moorman, a sister, walked before the bride as maid of honor. She was wearing a floor length gown of emerald chiffon over taffeta. The a-line skirt featured a full Watteau back and was topped with a fitted empire bodice designed with a jewel neckline and full Grecian sleeves banded with satin cuffs. A soft ruffle accented the neckline and sleeves and her four tier pouff veil was held in place with a matching satin bow. She carried a nosegay arrangement of red carnations and sweetheart roses with red velvet streamers.

"The Genesis", a band of whom the groom is manager, provided music for the reception which was held at the American Legion Hall in New Bremen.

Mrs. Moorman received guests in a Gay Gibson Original Dress in Christmas red with antique accessories. The groom's mother selected a Leslie Faye Original dress in raspberry with navy trim and chose navy accessories. Both were remembered with corsages of white sweetheart roses.
